Operations Management Student Competition

Costco Wholesale Industries assemble a variety of cookies at their food processing facilities. Various innovative techniques are implemented at these facilities to improve the quality of packaging. The New York Institute of Technology, in partnership with Costco Wholesale Industries, is conducting a case study of these operations. At 2:00 PM, on Thursday, October 11, the case will be presented to students at the conference. The students will then have one day to work on the case and then, at 11:00 AM, on Saturday, October 13, they will present their work. This Operations Management Student Competition provides opportunities for students to engage with one of their cookie assembly line to enhance their productivity, quality, and welfare of employees. This is open to all NYIT students. Non-NYIT students who wish to attend or compete should contact admin@iabe.org for information about registering.
